MLT Vacations welcomes new marketing SVP Iglio brings wealth of experience to company

ATLANTA (April 29, 2013) – MLT Vacations today named Tina Iglio as senior vice president of marketing, where she will be responsible for marketing, product development, revenue management and distribution, and corporate communications. She will report to MLT President John Caldwell.

As senior vice president of marketing, Iglio will be responsible for marketing, product development, revenue management and distribution, and corporate communications.

“Tina’s accomplishments in the global travel industry are well recognized and she brings a wealth of experience and expertise to this key position at MLT,” said John Caldwell, MLT president. “Now that our headquarters relocation to Atlanta is complete, we are excited that she will lead the company’s marketing division during our next phase of expansion and growth, which will lead to greater product offerings and improved customer service.”

Before joining MLT, Iglio was the vice president of United States sales at Travelport and was responsible for leading and growing U.S. travel agency sales. Prior to that role, she was the vice president of marketing, where she had responsibility for Travelport’s global brand, customer research and marketing programs.

“I am thrilled about the opportunity to join MLT during this exciting time in its transition, development and growth,” said Iglio. “I look forward to creating and driving more value for our travel agency partners and product supplier network.”

Iglio has held global roles based in the U.S. and United Kingdom, including with Travelport, as the vice president of marketing at Ericsson, Inc., and as the vice president of marketing at Marconi Corporation, where she held global and regional roles with responsibilities covering marketing, public relations and industry analyst relations.

She began her career with Deloitte as a management consultant assisting global companies, within the consumer retail, IT and telecommunications industries with strategy development, organizational design and business process optimization.

As an honors graduate from the University of Arizona, Iglio holds a bachelor’s degree in Finance and Accounting and is a Certified Public Accountant.
